The BeeBee Appel Scholarship Program for the 2015 Shield Medicine Conference

Maddie’s Shelter Medicine Program will be providing travel scholarships of up to $500 each to select organizations for the ASPCA Cornell Maddie’s® Shelter Medicine Conference to be held at Cornell University, July 31 – August 2, 2015. This scholarship program is made in honor of Dr. Leslie Appel, founder and executive director of Shelter Outreach Services, and a champion of the field of shelter medicine. Dr. Appel requested that the scholarship program be named for her beloved adopted dog BeeBee.

The Request for Proposals (RFP) is limited to the first 25 applications. Email the completed application to Erin Earley at erin.earley@aspca.org. Applications will be accepted starting April 14th at 10:00 AM Eastern Standard Time, and will close April 21st at 5:00 PM Eastern Standard Time (or sooner upon receipt of 25 applications).

Eligible Requirements:

- Nonprofit animal welfare organizations, government agencies/departments or other nonprofit organizations whose mission includes animal welfare
- Scholarships are ONLY made to organizations – not to individuals

Eligible Costs:

- The scholarship, if awarded, may only go toward travel, local transportation, and hotel costs. If awarded, the conference registration fee will be waived for up to 4 individuals.

How to Apply:

Please fill out the application and email to Erin Earley at erin.earley@aspca.org. Please note that applications will be accepted from April 14th (10 am ET) through April 21st (5 pm ET). If your application is sent before or after this period it will not be considered. The first 25 applications will be considered.

How to be reimbursed: Receipts for reimbursement up to $500 must be submitted in person on the final day of the conference to conference organizers. Details will follow for awardees.

Questions:

For questions on submitting your application, please contact Erin Earley at erin.early@aspca.org.